I wish the government and states would just drop this nonsense and quit trying to hurt the free enterprise system and economy also control the freedom of companies to succeed and make better products in very competitive market. If they think for a minuet that the whole government finding was fair and just I think NOT! AOL and other companies point the accusing finger at Microsoft for being a monopoly its just a ploy to take a successful company down so they can eat up the whole market. Microsoft has never overcharged the consumer for innovative products. This kind of legal dog and pony show put on by the states and federal government wasting the tax payers money has got to stop.
